Dear Miss Annick,

Your small amount of time then usual away from home recently, I'm farther than ever behind and haven't worked my way out from under the accumulated letters of my subscribers. Please forgive my brevity.

Your article about the pictures that is to me very much for two reasons: I believe the Thompson book is an effort to get a government off the back by extensive litigation while your article is a major conclusion. Hence I would very warmly like to have a run-down in my files. Also, a friend is continuing my work on the pictures, and I'd like to give this to him also. If you can find the time, would you expand what you wrote 12/30, including citations?

I agree with your comment that people see only what they want to see.

Something of more you said that is most interesting is that it wasn't Vergis. There are errors in what Holland said, and refundable errors but nonetheless errors. I have no doubt he saw what he said he did when he testified to people, etc.

Your personal misadventure becomes no less mysterious with the passage of time.

Have you gotten all the information you can on your companion and what she is like, who she associates with (whether men or women), etc. If you were unconscious, you'd hardly know what happened or didn't....it does seem consistent with some kind of framing also...my opinion if male homosexuals has always been that they hate women. Witness women's styles!

Have a good year.

Sincerely,
